

December 2023

We apologize for the delay in sending this update and we covet your continued patience. Over the past 6-8 weeks, we had a number of minor items crop up that required some attention. Since we expected the documents would be done at any moment, we delayed an update anticipating that the next update would be the announcement that the fund had been launched. Having said all of that, happily, these items have all been addressed. We have now received and agreed on the final version, so we expect the final documents to be signed very soon. Once that has been completed, the fund needs to be registered with the regulator, and then we can proceed.

We are very pleased with the current structure of this new fund, and we are eager to provide all our account holders with the information once the fund has been cleared for sale.

This communication is to assure you that we are still working hard to get to the finish line, and we will connect with you once the launch occurs. I would also like to continue to assure you that no changes have been made or will be made to your account without your express permission.

There is a great deal of information about our RDA restructuring efforts in partnership with Capstone Asset Management on our website. This partnership is built around a shared missional commitment to Christian ministry. For further background on this change, please see the interview video on our website at CSServices.ca.

Although the same mission and ministry will continue within the new fund, there will be a structural change for account holders of the CSS Revocable Deposit. We are, however, excited about how these developments have the potential to expand the original CSS mission. The RDA program is designed so Christians can make their capital available for mortgages to churches, Christian schools, and other Christian charities. This allows Christians to support worthy projects broadly across the Christian community, and, within the new fund, this mission will continue on an expanded foundation.
